Poem

Gone From My Sight – By Luther Beacher

I am standing upon the seashore.
A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the blue ocean.
She is an object of beauty and strength.
I stand and watch her until at length
she hangs like a speck of white cloud just where the sea and sky come down to mingle with one another.
Then someone at my side says, 'There! She is gone!'
Gone where?
Gone from my sight, that is all.
She is just as large in mast and spar and hull
as ever she was when she left my side;
just as able to bear her load of living freight to her destined port.
Her diminished size is in me, not in her.
And just at that moment when someone at my side says, 'There!
She is gone!'
there are other eyes watching her coming and other voices ready to take up the glad shout, 'Here she comes!'
